

Center for the Study of Religion has funds available to support a limited number of Senior Thesis research projects in the study of religion. The Senior Thesis must deal with religion in some significant manner, while the focus can be on any religious tradition or aspect of the category of religion. Awards vary in amount from $100 to $1000 with $500 being the average award size. Students are encouraged to apply to other sources of funding in addition to CSR (e.g. their departments or the Dean's office).

Award recipients will be named "Undergraduate Research Fellows" at Center for the Study of Religion. Fellows will be asked to report on their research informally at the Center and to submit a final written report at the end of the year, along with a copy of their Thesis/Paper. Fellows will also be invited to participate in occasional Center events and are required to attend at least one Center event during their fellowship year. Current Undergraduate Research Fellows are listed here.

Applications are reviewed in the Fall and the Spring. Please contact Center Associate Director Jenny Wiley Legath with any questions at 258-2281 or jlegath@princeton.edu.

Please note: students wishing to use CSR funding for international travel should consult the University's undergraduate travel policies. CSR cannot fund travel to countries on the State Department's warning list unless an exemption is granted by the university. Students are responsible for obtaining the exemption before receiving funding.